This is a quote I took from the book Stars: A New Way to See them. The author H.A.Rey continues to go on and say, "the whys come later..." I believe this is a quote represents the idea behind this book. It is for people who are just interested in knowing about stargazing, and the technical stuff is just optional.

A new way to study star formation in galaxies. Artist's impression of a galaxy. Credit: ICRAR. Stars can be considered as enormous nuclear-powered processing plants. They take lighter elements like hydrogen and helium, and, over billions of years, produce the heavier elements of the periodic table. Understanding star formation requires the very difficult task of using powerful telescopes to observe galaxies many billions of light-years away in the distant Universe.
